1. The following hospitals in Lodz are known:

- a. No. 1 - Ulica Wulchenska. This is a surgical, gynecological and general hospital with about 80 beds.
- b. No. 2 - Ulicy Anna Marie and Armii Czerwona. This is for children only and has about 600 beds.
- c. No. 3 - Formerly Poznanski, 3/5 Ulica Sterlinga. This is a general hospital and has 150 beds.
- d. No. 7 - 13 Ulica Sterlinga. This is a surgical hospital with a very good reputation. It has 80 to 100 beds.
- e. No. 12 - Ulica Munkiec, located about one kilometer from the terminal of the No. 6 streetcar. It is for communicable diseases.

2. Private patients pay approximately 33 zl. per day for hospitalization. Overcrowding makes it difficult to obtain a bed for internal treatment and non-emergency operations. Communicable cases are admitted immediately on notification by a physician.

3. There is a large military hospital at 15 Ulica Jeromskiego. The special UB (Security Police) hospital is in Ulica Polocna. Both admit civilian relatives of military and UB personnel.

4. There is a pharmacy for foreign products at 46 Ulica Petrowska where various specialties, including those of Western manufacture, may be bought.

5. Persons needing aureomycin, etc., may ask Warsaw radio to broadcast their request and may buy privately from persons who have received medicines in packages, mainly from the United States.

6. Cases of tuberculosis have dropped considerably, and there is noticeably less bone tuberculosis among children.
